Let's Start!

A single room or a double room? Let's call a hotel!

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information, involving apologies, thanks, suggestions and invitations in communicative situations.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about travel.
- I can make and respond to suggestions.
- I can make and respond to offers.

Ask your partner:

- Do you like to stay at hotels? Why or why not?
- What is your favorite hotel?
- Where was the last hotel you stayed in?

Let's Explore!

Vanessa calls a hotel in Mexico. What is the room rate?

* The "room rate" is the cost of the hotel room per night.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Hotel Clerk: The Beach Star Hotel. Can I help you?
Vanessa: Hello. I'd like to inquire about your rates.
Hotel Clerk: Would you like a single room or a double room?
Vanessa: A single room, please.
Hotel Clerk: That is $80 per night.
Vanessa: Does that include breakfast?
Hotel Clerk: Yes. We offer a continental breakfast or English breakfast.
Vanessa: Do all of your rooms have a balcony?
Hotel Clerk: Yes, and each room has a mini bar.
Vanessa: Fantastic.
Hotel Clerk: When are you visiting?
Vanessa: I'm not sure.
Hotel Clerk: Well, how about you call back when you know? Ask to speak to Ana.
Vanessa: Are you Ana?
Ana: Yes. I can give you a discount rate when you book for more than 3 nights.
Vanessa: Thank you! Talk to you soon. Good bye.
Ana: Thank you. Good bye.

Let's Practice!

Learning Points

Making and Responding to Suggestions

There are different ways of making and responding to suggestions.

Some are formal and some are casual.

You can make and respond to suggestions using modals, like could, should or would.

Review the chart:

Making a Suggestion	Responding to a Suggestion
How about ... ? You should ... Why not ... ? You could ... Would you ... ?	Good idea. Great suggestion. OK. I don't know ... I'd rather not ... Mm, I don't like ...

Hotel Etiquette in North America

When you stay at a hotel in North America, it is polite to tip the housekeeping staff (the people who clean your room) and the bellboy (the person who carries your bags and suitcases).

These are suggestions for how much you can tip:

For housekeeping: about 3 dollars a night. Leave the money on the table near the phone at the end of your stay.

For the bellboy: about 1-2 dollars per bag.

In some countries, you do not tip. It is not polite. Be sure to read about the customs in the country you want to visit.
